

America The Ugly

Contributed by Sarah Worth

The phrase The Ugly American has been around since the mid-sixties, referring to the manner in which arrogant Americans treated other peoples around the world. The phrase was accurate then but far more so today.

Today America is by far the cleanest nation on earth, and as such the most restrictive to single celled life forms (germs, parasites, viruses, etc).

What we MCO's (humans) call cleanliness, is nothing more than a code word for bias against diversity and prejudice.

Being clean (for Americans) consists of such evil practices as urinating and defecating in plumbed toilets, the excrement then being taken to so called cleansing ponds where the precious waste products are stripped of any useful by-products and then chemically disinfected (another word for mass murder), so the water can be reused by MCO's.

Not only does the disinfecting process murder millions of SCO's, but it also robs billions of other SCO's of a place to live and raise their young.

In China, France and many other nations, MCO's simply step off the road and urinate or defecate where they will (like the rest of the animal kingdom). The SCO's already housed in the MCO's waste product live safely and millions of other germs, parasites and viruses are aloud to take up residence and produce billions of other SCO's, thus continuing the circle of life.

If you Americans want to live in peace and harmony with the rest of the world then you should try and emulate our diverse culture and willingness to co-exist with SCO's. If you continue your genocidal ways you will only hasten the destruction of your biased culture.

In short, Americans need to quite being ugly.
